

The Jingyue Yangtze River Bridge

The Jingyue Yangtze River Bridge is a cable-stayed bridge over the Yangtze River between Jianli County, Hubei Province and Yueyang, Hunan Province in central China. The Bridge opened in June 2010. The bridge crosses the Yangtze River and is one of the largest cable-stayed bridges in the world. The bridge was tolled a few months after opening. It ranks sixth in the world among similar bridges; and granted the Hunan Provincial Quality Engineering Award, the Hunan Provincial Lotus Award, and the first prize for Science and Technology Award of China Highway & Transportation Society.

